Dignity of Women

(Seminars, elocution competition, panel discussions etc. for women of PU and UG level)

Unfortunately today woman is subject to every form of exploitation and oppression. Respect for the dignity of women is at the lowest ebb. While there is a lot of talk in the air about empowerment of women, practically neglect and rejection of the girl child and heinous crimes against women are the norms in our society. True empowerment will come only when we recognize and respect the dignity of women.

Purity of Heart & Clarity of Mind

(Introducing a new approach to new age education, Academic conference involving Institution heads and managing bodies of educational institutions)

Clarity of Mind and Purity of Heart are two essential characteristics of effective and successful leadership. These traits can be developed only through value oriented education. Our current system of education has to undergo a series of radical changes to be able to meet the needs of the changing times. For instance, we must move from teacher centric to student centric approach. We must promote research and enterprise in our new generation. Instead of being content with mere information, they must be equipped with knowledge, character and values.

We solicit your support and active participation in this movement of persuading every Indian to play his role and build a fully literate, green and caring India.

Integrity and integration

(Mass Campaign, Panel discussions and elocution competitions exclusively for Teachers, Professors and Faculty)

In order to achieve real progress and prosperity India must restore two essential virtues in its society, namely Integrity at the individual level and Integration at the collective level. It must get rid of deep rooted evils such as corruptions, communalism among others. It must be our collective resolve to wipe out these evils.

CSR to ISR, Radical Expansion in the scope of social responsibility

(Movement introducing ISR - Individual Social responsibility, Paper presentation, elocution etc. involving NGOs and students of PG / PhD and Management levels)

Globally, CSR (Corporate social responsibility) is quite a popular idea today. Indeed, the corporate sector has made significant contributions to the wellbeing of the society under this head. However, looking at the plight of the masses, particularly in the Indian context, one must admit that whatever has been done so far and all that is being done currently is mere miniscule compared to what ought to be done. The multiple challenges before us are of such magnitude that it would be futile to expect any real relief until there is a radical change in the matters of care and share. Not only the Government and the corporate sector but every individual, institution and every segment in the country must recognize and accept its share of responsibility and offer the best share of its time, knowledge, expertise and financial resources for the welfare of the society.

Food Security

(Mass Campaign, paper presentation, for students of PG and PhD level)

According to figures released (in May 2015) by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations 795 million human beings in this world suffer under nutrition. They simply do not get sufficient food to eat.

Unfortunately India accounts for the largest number of hungry people. Any sensitive Indian would bow his head in shame knowing that his country is home to 194.6 million undernourished people. It is high time we acknowledge this reality and resolve to make sure that India is liberated from this shameful bane.

Clean India, Green India

(Campaign to promote Sustainable Urban Development, audio visual presentations, walkathon, Seminar etc. involving Architects, Town Planners and bureaucrats)

The greatest challenge facing our planet earth today is to restore its own innate purity and potentials. It has been proved time and again that our insensitive and greed oriented approach has lead us to the verge of disaster. We can reverse this situation only by bringing about a radical change in our approach, attitude and our policies towards nature, resources and development. We must adopt Sustainable development as our Mantra. Sustainable development is development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the interests of future generations. Our objective is to lead India to the forefront of sustainable development by promoting awareness in the society on various issues related to this challenge.

The Unsung Heroes in Education and Champions from rural India

(Identification and short listing and Felicitations)

- A. The real Heroes are not the imaginary characters in fairy tales nor are they the stars of the silver screen. The real heroes of our times are the people who make the difference through their sacrifice, passion and perseverance. We have many such unsung heroes amongst us. Let us recognize them, appreciate their work and felicitate them with songs of praise and inspire others to emulate their heroic tales.
- B. Champions are not born but made. Many of our sports celebrities come from humble rural backgrounds. All they had was their determination, drive, perseverance and die hard spirits to lead them to the pinnacle of success. They have proved that given an opportunity, rural talents can very well outshine all others. Our aim is to make these achievers and their inspiring stories known to the rest of the country and thereby ignite that fire and kindle that spirit in every Indian.
